

From Knowledge Management to Career Planning and Change

KC-ASTD Brings Quality Programming to You

In keeping with our commitment to programs that enrich Kansas City's T&D community, KC-ASTD continues to raise the bar on programming in 2008. Tom Kane, independent consultant and former partner at Accenture, kicked off the 2008 program season with a highly rated presentation on "Leading Change." Gia Preston, Manager for the Knowledge Management Team in Sprint Nextel's Network Operations Division, followed at the March meeting with her message on "Making Knowledge Management Real." Be sure to check out our added feature on Knowledge Management (below).

April's meeting will feature Ana Jensen, an ASTD board member and seasoned professional, as she speaks on "Career Management and Talent Planning." Most recently employed as Manager of Talent Management/Workforce Optimization at Sprint, Ana will discuss the disciplines for career management, including some practical solutions for managing your own career. If you're in the hunt for a certificate in this field or CPLP certification, Ana's presentation will provide a timely introduction to the national workshop we are hosting in May. Don't miss this powerful, yet practical combination.
